PRINCIPAL'S REPORT

Dear parents and members of the Essex Heights community,

School Council Election

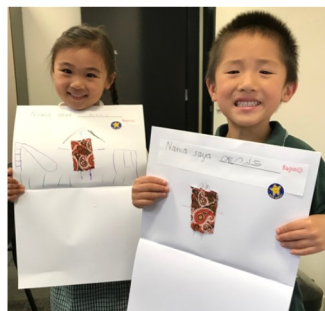

At the close of nominations there were 11 parent nominations and 2 DET nominations for school council. As a result there will need to be a ballot for the parent representatives, which will begin on Monday, 26th February. Today students received a sealed envelope containing instructions, ballot papers and return envelopes for the parent ballot. Please take the time to read the information and participate in the ballot. Your vote is important. The ballot closes at 4pm on Monday 5th March.

In the DET employee category, Paul Davis and Carolyn Wilson, being the only two nominations, have been duly elected.

On behalf of the school community, I would once again like to thank all the retiring members of school council for their enormous contribution to the ongoing development and success of Essex Heights PS.

Indonesian Program

I was so pleased to see some of the excellent work that the children are producing in our Indonesian program with Bu Sarah. Two of our Prep M students, Dennis and Janice showed me their outstanding Indonesian work. They created a picture of a person using Batik, their own imagination and drawing skills. Joyce and Jai also showed me their sentences, their drawings and they were able to read out their work confidently. Amazing work from our children, and I look forward to seeing more creative work in the near future. BAGUS!!!!

Pink Stumps Day

Pink Stumps Day was again an outstanding success this year. The Year 6 students really challenged the teachers this year by posting a very good score. This set the benchmark for the staff team. The students bowled very well and the pressure mounted each over. Eventually the staff proved victorious, but the real winner on the day was the McGrath Foundation. With the support of our community the school was able to raise just over a $1000. What a great effort from all concerned. Special thanks to the coordinating staff (Con P, Anita D, Paul D, Courtnee J, Maria S and Carolyn W), to the PFA for providing icy poles for the children, and finally to all our community for coming and supporting or for contributing to the fund raising. Another great school community event!!! Thank you

Professional Practice Days (PPD)

At Essex Heights we achieve excellence by consistently focusing on improving the achievements of our children. The most important thing we can do to improve student outcomes is to develop the skills of our teachers.

To ensure we support the learning and development of not only our students, but our teachers too, we are committed to providing professional development opportunities for our teacher workforce.

Teachers will spend four (4) days per year further developing their skills in areas that are aligned to the school priorities. Students will directly benefit from these improvements in their daily learning.

These professional practice days are part of the Victorian Government Schools Agreement 2017. Each full time teacher is entitled to one day per term (four days per year), to focus on the improved delivery of high quality teaching and learning.

We know children sometimes find it challenging when their teacher is away from the class but we have excellent staff members who will step in and take your child's class when the classroom teacher is on a Professional Practice Day. It is however important to keep in mind that teachers take the time to focus on improving their professional practice which therefore directly impacts their ability to improve your child's learning experience. Also each teacher on a PPD leaves a plan in place to ensure that your child's education continues as usual.

We are scheduling the days ahead of time and have planned the day so that there is minimal impact.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Student Leaders 2018

At last week's assembly, Michael Gidley MP, State Member for Waverley, presented our new Student Leaders with their badges and a special certificate to mark their special position. At the assembly, Michael, as an elected community leader, was able to share the excitement of the children and was an appropriate special guest to make the presentations. Michael also presented the school with an Australian flag. He also explained the significance and importance of the flag within our country.

Many parents and family members attended the assembly and it was very exciting for all concerned. I congratulate all the children and look forward to their contributions to our school throughout the year.

Parent Teacher Interviews

Parent Teacher meetings will be held this Monday 26th and Tuesday 27th February. This is a great opportunity for parents or guardians to meet your child's classroom teacher to discuss matters of mutual interest, to ensure that the year is a most successful experience for all involved. Appointments can be made on the Compass portal - click on the Book Parent Teacher Interviews link on your home screen. I look forward to seeing you all during these afternoons.

Home – School Partnership

As we prepare for Parent Teacher interviews, it is timely to consider the importance of the partnership between parents and teachers.

I found this article by Michael Grose, a well know education writer, thought provoking and very interesting:

Strong parent–teacher relationships are one of the hallmarks of all great schools. They're a major contributor to student success. The research into schooling across the Western world reveals that positive parent–teacher partnerships are a more significant factor in student success than parent income levels or social status.

However, parent–teacher relationships require effort and energy from both parties if they are going to really benefit children and young people.

Here are five elements to guide you as a parent in forming strong bonds with your child's teachers this year:

1. Knowing (building affinity)

Know – the first element – requires you to be both proactive and patient. Proactive because you need to be willing to meet and work at maintaining relationships. Patient because it may take some time to build a working relationship. For your partnership to be meaningful and successful you need to meet with your children's teacher(s) with the goal of forming a respectful professional relationship. Share your aspirations for your child and be willing to build the teacher's knowledge about your family.

Get to know your child's teachers' aspirations and gain an understanding of their approach and the focus they have for this particular year group.

Also commit to continuing to know what's going on in the life of your child's classrooms as well as the life of the school on an ongoing basis.

2. Supporting (building trust)

Children need to know that you are fully behind what their teachers are trying to achieve if they are going to commit fully to learning. The best way to support your child's teacher is to trust their knowledge, professionalism and experience. Avoid the temptation to question the expertise of teachers in front of students, particularly when the teachers use methods that you are unfamiliar with. Initiate conversations with teachers around methodology to give them the chance to explain the approach they are taking.

3. Participating (building links to student learning)

Participation – the third element – takes into account the level of parent engagement in student learning. There's a huge body of research that points to the correlation between parent engagement in student learning and their educational success. If you want your child to improve his learning, take an interest in what he is doing. Follow school and teacher guidelines about helping at home and attend as many conferences, meetings and events involving your child as possible. This simple strategy has a significant, long-term impact.

4. Communicating (building relationships)

Life's not always smooth sailing for kids of any age. Family circumstances change. Friends move away. Illness happens. Mental health challenges can hit anyone at any time. These changes affect learning. Keep teachers up to date with significant changes or difficulties that your child or young person experiences so they can accommodate your child's emotional and learning needs at school.

5. Advocating (building loyalty)

Advocacy – the last element – means that you talk teachers and your school up rather than tear them down among children and the wider community. Teachers hold very public positions and generally work hard to build good reputations both within their school and their wider education community. Consider a teacher's reputation among the community and also with children when you discuss educational matters with others.

Building parent-teacher relationships doesn't just happen. They take good will from both sides, a commitment to setting aside the time necessary to support the home-based learning tasks that are expected, and a willingness to communicate both concerns and commendations through the correct channels.

Parent-teacher relationships - long may they prosper!

George Perini
Principal

On Thursday 22nd February at 11.30am to 1.30pm, the whole school, who dressed up in pink, sat watching the Year 6s playing against the teachers in a match of cricket. The game took place on the council oval, while the whole school spectated the game on the verge.

Before the game started, all the younger children who watched the game were extremely excited, and were chatting happily between themselves. Some of them were even holding signs that they made themselves. Many of them were shouting "Go Sixes!" or "Go Teachers!" while holding the signs. The shouting was surreal! It was so loud that a few of the younger children were saying things to each other such as "how psychotic can this yelling get?"

Eventually, the game started, and the cheering erupted once more, although telling by the facial expressions of the Year Ones and Preps, they didn't understand the game as well as the older grades. It seemed as though many of the Year Sixes had a task. Some of the Year Sixes were on the team, and others were taking care of the younger grades.

After about two hours of the game, the game was over and everybody was eager to find out what the score was. The final score was sixty three to one hundred and nine, Sixes to teachers respectively. This meant the teachers won. In my opinion, the Year Sixes did try their hardest. The players all looked puffed out and hot, and some of them managed to take a pink balloon each. The whole school was also given an icy pole each as well.

Overall, we all had such a wonderful day, and everybody enjoyed it, from the younger grades to the teachers. We all had fun, and agreed that Pink Stumps Day was a truly magnificent day!

Murid Bagus - Good Student

Each week in the Indonesian program, many students show respect and are an outstanding example of how to behave. When students are displaying the school values in the Indonesian Room, they are invited to put their name and an Indonesian word into the 'Murid Bagus' (Good Student) box.

The number of names in the 'Murid Bagus' box is growing rapidly! It is so wonderful to continue to see so many students displaying the Essex Heights values in their learning in the Indonesian room!

Congratulations to Mitchell from 4CB for being drawn out of the 'Murid Bagus' box this week. Mitchell's word for the week is 'biru' which means 'blue' and also happens to be his 'warna favorit' (favourite colour).

I encourage you to discuss with your child about their learning in the Indonesian program: which day their class attends Indonesian, some words they know, and cultural aspects of Indonesia they are interested in. I'm sure they would also love to share ways in which they are displaying the Essex Heights values throughout their learning.

*Salam (Regards),
